

Paragraphing World Events

(H. C.)
It's a great thing to have good neighbors. France and Italy have agreed to allow Austria to have a monarchy if she wants it.

Sweden has installed an electric system in the Riksdag by which it can record the vote in a minute. Each member of the parliament merely presses a button and in sixty seconds the vote is flashed before the speaker.

Don't know whether this would work at Ottawa. How would the leaders and whips know how each minister had voted. And how would the electors know how their member had voted?

Besides that, it would seriously interfere with the musical programme. In every division the members sing in English and French while the whips are rounding up late comers and checking up their lists.

Electrical voting would save time but it would have a demoralizing effect upon party discipline. How on earth could the whips estimate what the division would be if the members voted electrically?

Under such a system some bills that were passed would have been defeated and some bills that were defeated would have become Acts. It is futile but interesting to speculate upon the things that might have been had there been a secret ballot in the federal parliament and the provincial legislatures.

President Roosevelt explains that he would have a balanced budget were it not for the four billion dollars spent on the New Deal. This four billion dollars is the exact excess of expenditure over revenue. And it's a good deal.

The new Attorney General of Ontario, has dropped about forty K.C.'s off the list because they did not take out their patents. This news might have been headed "K.C.'s at the Bat," for, like the immortal Casey, they are all struck out.

They have only themselves to blame. No doubt they pulled wires to get the honors, they were not willing to pay for.

Communists say Mr. Bennett has stolen their clothes," says a newspaper. Yet no one can say that Mr. Bennett wasn't always well-dressed. We always thought he wore the sort of clothes that might tempt Communists, but we never thought they were clothes that might tempt him.

Speaking of stocks of no par value, a Nanton man says that some inferior stocks (of Scotch) have gone up to Old Parr value.

A Calgary girl says the broadcast she liked best was the one in which R. B. teased Mackenzie King about his lassie fair.

The only object there could be in issuing stock in shares of no par value is to conceal the relation of the dividends to the invested capital; therefore no harm but only good can come from its abolition.

As a general thing, a divorce means that four persons are about to be married. Mary Pickford's divorce means that she and Doug. are going to give marriage a third trial. The "perfect marriage" failed, but hope still triumphs over experience.

Mr. Bennett's broadcasts were made at 9 p.m. but next morning's

Rat-ers Attend Annual Town Meeting

Auditor's Report Shows Town of Vulcan in Strong Financial Position

On Friday evening, in the Odd Fellows' hall, a good number of ratepayers of the Town of Vulcan convened for the annual meeting. Mayor King and all councillors were present. The meeting was called to order by A. J. Flood, secretary-treasurer, and the choice of a chairman for the meeting was J. T. Willard.

The first part of the meeting was given to the reading of the auditor's financial statement and report, and the asking of questions by the ratepayers on the various items of the statement. Considerable discussion was held over the expenditure on the library. A motion that the town council do away with the public library was lost. However a motion was passed that the council investigate into the library, and make it more beneficial and efficient. Expenditure for the library during the year was $300.00 according to the statement from the auditor.

After the reading, discussion and accepting of the financial statement, Mayor King addressed the ratepayers and gave an encouraging report of the town's business during the year past. He touched on the remarkable success in the collection of taxes and the liquidating of the town debts. Councillor Ulrich reported on the public works department, and Councillor Allan reported on the fire department and on the relief. The ratepayers discussed the advisability of permanent sidewalks. They also discussed matters pertaining to the town boulevards. No motions were made on these subjects.

A vote of appreciation was tendered the mayor and councillors for their services before the meeting adjourned.

Elks Lose and Win to High River During Week

Win 5-4 Last Wednesday Evening;
Lose 6-1 at High River Tuesday Evening

During the week's play, the Vulcan Elks' hockey team won a game and lost a game in the Foothills League schedule. Both games were played with the High River Fliers, one at home and the other at High River. On last Wednesday evening the locals were hosts to the Fliers, and won the game 5-4. On Tuesday evening this week the Elks were defeated at High River 6-1.

The game at home was clean and fast. It provided a good sized gallery of fans plenty of hockey fare. The local boys had the game well in hand throughout, and the scoring was well divided among the members of the team. C. Norton, E. Norton, D. Thomas (S. Thomas), E. Robson, and H. Larocche all figured in the scoring. For the Fliers Allan "Bearcat" Murray starred. He scored three of the four tallies for High River, all on long shots. All penalties were minor ones, and very few were handed out. Final score, Vulcan 5, High River 4. This win boosted the Elks' lead in the league standing to 16 points.

The locals did not fare so well when they played a return game with the Fliers on Tuesday evening of this week. The final score was High River 6, Vulcan 1. The first period was fairly even and ended with the Fliers one point up, 2-1. Vulcan scored their only counter of the game in this period, D. Thomas scoring on a pass from Dillingham. Marshall scored twice for the Fliers. The middle frame was a sorrowful one for the Elks. High River ran in five straight goals to make their total score. No goals were made in the final period. Hislop, McLeod, Pollard and S. Malmberg all figured in the scoring for the Fliers. In the final frame the Elks kept their opponents well within their zone, but all effort failed to bring any more points, for Malmberg turned back dozens of shots. The game was played on fast ice, and was reported one of the most interesting in High River this season.

Lebeau Rink Wins Birks Trophy at Calgary 'Spiel

Rink Gains Place in Dominion Curling Championship Playdown by Winning Section of McDonald
Brier Event

Only one curling rink represented Vulcan at the Calgary bonspiel last week. This, a rink skipped by Tom Lebeau, brought home the jewellery signifying victory in the Birks competition, and won the first section of the McDonald Brier event, thus gaining place in the playdowns in the Dominion Championship. Personnel of the rink was N. Campbell, J. Lebeau, J. Wolfe and T. B. Lebeau.

In the final of the Birks draw the rink played against Jack McCloy of Didsbury. The Vulcanites won with a 9-7 score. The competition is limited to visiting rinks at the bonspiel. The game was an even session to the fourth when Lebeau started using the chalk steadily and soon had a good margin to withstand the closing bid made by the Didsbury rink. The score by ends was:

Lebeau ----- 120 011 101 200-9
McCloy ----- 001 200 010 021-7

The Birks trophy is a handsome piece of jewellery and is now on display at the Wolfe Hardware. Along with the large trophy goes an individual trophy to each of the players. These are silver vases, supported with three silver curling brooms and a curling rock, and are about 10 inches high.

The Lebeau rink won the first section of the Brier competition with three wins against a single loss in the round robin play. The competition is divided into four sections, and winners of the various sections gain place in the Dominion championship playdowns. These games will be completed later.

Fans See Fast Hockey Exhibition Friday

Closely Contested Ice Game Results in A Win for Calgary Hornets,
Score 7-6

Tied scores at the end of the first and second periods and a battle for the deciding point in the final frame gave the sport fans, numbering over 200, plenty of thrills at the hockey exhibition in the Vulcan arena on Friday evening. The Vulcan Elks played hosts to the Calgary Hornets, and the locals lost the game by one point. The score was 7-6. It was a ding-dong game all the course of the sixty minutes play. The fastness of the plays, and the clean cut manner of their execution pleased the fans. The visitors displayed superiority in combination, but the locals, at all times kept them working, and it was anybody's game until the final bell.

The game did not start until 10:30 p.m., due to car trouble had by the Hornets on their journey to Vulcan. The fans took the delay in good spirit, and were given a real treat for their wait. The game opened fast and A. McGregor opened the scoring for the Hornets after 16:06 minutes of play. Eleven seconds later C. Norton netted a pass from Larocche to tie the score, 1-1 at the end of the first.

Vulcan opened the second frame with a grand scoring feast. At the 8-minute mark Dillingham scored on a pass from Spider Thomas. Two minutes later D. Thomas scored unassisted, and in another minute he again scored, this time on a pass from Dillingham. Vulcan was three points up at this point in the game. This made the Hornets buzz around some, and when the second period ended the score was again tied, 4-4.

Del Thomas scored for Vulcan after two minutes of the last period, had passed. At the half-way mark the Calgary boys quickly scored two. At the 19:25 mark Rutten suggested the hemp on a pass from Larocche and it looked like a tie game. With but three seconds to complete the game, Patton of the Hornets scored the winning goal. The game was wide open and very few penalties resulted. Bill Recor refereed the game.

CURLING

(By Guy Weadick)

Recently I received a book from a very good friend of mine named Frank G. Menke, one of America's outstanding sport writers. It is entitled "All Sports Record Book," which is an authentic encyclopedia of athletics, compiled by Mr. Menke.

Not being familiar with the game of "curling," upon reading the account of the recent successful bonspiel held in High River, as carried in the January 10th issue of The Times, I looked up the history of Curling in Mr. Menke's book. Thinking this information may be of interest to many of your readers I pass it along for their indulgence.

Curling, sometimes called "bowling on ice," is one of the few games which lads and lassies who concoct histories do not insist was originated by Greece, Rome, Persia or Egypt. They agree that it was a European creation. After that they disagree. Some claim curling started in the Netherlands; others trace its beginning to the Scandinavians, while still more vote for "the Flemish countries" and defy you to find some one still alive who can prove them wrong. The game of curling, no matter where its exact place of birth, came into existence late in the 15th century and along about 1500 to 1610, was generally played in those countries of Europe where ice is plentiful in winter time. The Scots gave it the name "Curling," but in the Netherlands it was known as "Kut-ting" as early as 1600.

If the Scots did not create the game they certainly are to be credited with its development and progress. Curling was Scotland's national winter sport so early as the 16th century for in 1528, Cameron, a Scot, who had gone to sea and inspected the Orkney Islands, stressed in his report that "they contain many excellent stones for the game of curling."

Curling was played in Scotland for more than three centuries without a governing body and under regulations the players framed to suit either ice conditions, size of the playing area or the desires of the contestants. But in 1834, an organization which called itself the "Amateur Curling Club of Scotland," was formed and proceeded to standardize the sport.

This was supplanted in power on Nov. 16, 1838, when the "Grand Caledonian Curling Club" was created and quickly became the dominating organization for the game in Scotland. In 1842, after Queen Victoria visited the club and watched the game, the name was changed to the one by which it is known today "The Royal Caledonian Curling Club." Following the Queen's visit the Prince Consort of England became a patron of the Club.

At the time of its founding the Caledonian Association had 28 clubs in its membership. In 1800 this increased to 500, by 1900 it was 700. And now it is far beyond 1000.

The sport was introduced into Canada about 1807 and into the United States along in the 1820's. The Orchard Lake Club, Pontiac, Mich., was the first club organized in the U.S.A. to devote itself exclusively to curling. The Scots in the U.S.A., as well as the Dutch, gave the sport considerable impetus through the next fifty years, but Canada was apathetic for a long time. Now the entire situation is reversed.

The Grand Curling Club was originated in New York in 1867 for the purpose of staging annual tournaments. The first trophy hung up was the Gordon Medal. This was in 1869 and it is still in competition. Earliest championship duels were in ponds in the Canal Street region in New York City. When business progress blotted out the pond, play was continued in Central Park. A later shift was made to Van Cortlandt Park, but winter weather conditions in New York in recent years have produced so little ice that many of the oldsters have quit the game and few youngsters have been recruited.

The sport still is in great favor in Minnesota and Wisconsin and the Merriam Medal, emblematic of the Minnesota State Championship always brings crack curlers into competition for the trophy.

In 1931 a fairly successful effort was made to restore curling to its former glory in New York, by playing it on indoor rinks. This may bring about a definite revival of what its devotees call "one of the most glorious sports."

On the other hand, Canada has shown an ever increasing enthusiasm through the last 40 years. Few post-ponements are caused by lack of ice. The bonspiel held annually at Winnipeg attracts more than 125 rinks. A "rink" in curling meaning a team

"Witness Our Hand and Seal"

This we will swear as brothers,
On the faith and honor of man;
Each will do for the others
The title of good he can.
Each will render his measure
To the hoard of the common weal.
According to his treasure
Witness: our hand and seal.

Ours is the task of testing
The new-born faith of man:
No halt for us or resting.
We're marching in the van.
We feed the sacred fires,
We guard the sacred springs.
On us are turned the ire
Of trembling Lords and Kings.
In every breast the heart oppressed
Leaps when our war-cry rings.

Let us keep to our striving,
Rivals in friendly fight,
To forward best the thriving
Of honesty and right.
This is a prize worth gaining,
For the North, South, East and West;
Silence your weak complaining!
Get to your task with a zest!
Who plays his part with a loving heart
Him we will call the best.

Our faith will teach the miser
The proper use of gold,
And make our Dives wiser.
Than Dives was of old,
Till kindling unto pity
At tales of Lazarus' sores;
Till, shamed at heart, he plays his part,
And pays the debt he owes.

We will not follow doubters;
We will not give our votes
To demagogues and shouters,
Who'd set us at the throats
Of neighbors who are gainers
Beyond our hope of gain.
To us these our complainers
May prophesy in vain.
It is our creed that one good deed
May save the world again.

This we have sworn as brothers,
On the faith of our brotherhood;
Each will do for the others
The little he can of good.
Each will render his measure
To the hoard of the common weal,
According to his treasure.
Witness: our hand and seal.
—Thomas Lomax Hunter.

"She was a miller's daughter, and lived beside the mill. Still and deep ran the water but she was deeper still." The old song has given rise to a tremendous family of daughters, such as: "She was only a compositor's daughter, but she knew her P's and Q's." "She was a dressmaker's daughter, but she wasn't all she seemed." "She was only a watchmaker's daughter, but she gave me a wonderful time."

of four men.

The first International curling contest was in the winter of 1902-03 between Scotland and the United States, the Americans winning.

Curling is played on ice, usually with four players on each side. The "goal" lines are about 38 yards apart. The object of the game is for the rival players to place a granite or iron stone from their own "tee," into the circle in the centre of the rink at the opposite end. Each side takes turns in playing the stones, each member of a rink being permitted to play two stones. The stones shall not exceed 44 pounds in weight, no more than 36 inches in circumference and that the height shall not exceed 4 1/4 inches.

In ancient times the stones were usually irregular squared-edged affair. But the rounded stones made their appearance in 1805 and since then have come into universal use.

Canadians and Americans introduced iron stones years ago, at a time when there was no limit to weight. The Irons then ranged from 45 up to 115 pounds.

The old method of propelling the stone was to dig holes into it, thrusting the thumb and middle finger into those holes and then pitching the stones, as in bowling, toward the foe's goal. In more modern times a stick came into existence which had something like clamps on the end enabling the player to get a grip on both sides of the stone, releasing the grip as the push was made.

Questions and Answers On Social Credit

Questions

1. If Social Credit gains control in Alberta does Mr. Aberhart anticipate there will be any need of the province going further into debt, by borrowing outside the province?

2. Has there been any attempt to arrive at an estimate of the amount that will be required as a bonus from the Central Credit House in establishing a "Just Price" which is to correct the spread that now exists between the price quoted for primary products and that demanded for retail articles?

3. What is meant by the term "Unearned Increment?"

4. Where are the sources of Unearned Increment within the province that presents the possibility of yielding such amounts as will be necessary to cancel off the books of the Central Credit House the credits extended as Basic Dividends and those incurred through bonusing a just price?

5. How will the basic dividends after making the complete cycle come back to the state credit house for the next payment of dividends without the state credit house going into debt?

6. Why will it take 12 or 18 months for the proposed system of Social Credit to be put into operation, should Social Credit be adopted by the people at the next provincial election?

Answers

1. It is the intention of Social Credit principles not to go further into debt but to decrease the present indebtedness in the province, by placing purchasing power in the hands of the consumer it will improve conditions in every line of business, also the people of Alberta will be able to invest their savings in provincial bonds, a safe investment returning a fair commission.

2. A commission would be appointed consisting of expert members from every trade, calling or profession to investigate carefully the price spread in Alberta and fix the Just Price for goods and services. The "Just Price" should include the cost of raw materials, the wages for labor involved in the production, the wear and tear and overhead on machinery and plant, insurance on plant equipment and goods, cost of handling or marketing, commission on turnover the unearned increment levy. The prices will be set by this commission of experts.

3. Unearned increment is the term used to designate the value that accrues to goods or property through public demand. It is unearned in that it is not the outcome of labor, but the natural outcome of a large number of consumers desiring the product. This produces an increase in value as implied by the term "Increment."

4. In the previous answer we have explained what Unearned Increment is, and it is that which will furnish your basic dividends. The basic dividends after making the complete cycle arrives back at the credit house again. The sources of unearned increment will be derived from every legitimate form of business operating in the province.

5. You answer this question yourself, after the basic dividends have made the complete cycle they arrive back at the State Credit House for redistribution. It keeps up a steady flow as described in the working of the "Perfect Cycle."

6. Mr. Aberhart realizes, after giving the matter thought and study, the enormous amount of preparation required to put the Social Credit system into operation. He makes this estimate of time rather than disappoint the people by saying something could be done in a short time and perhaps it would take longer. It may take less than 12 to 18 months, if so, so much the better. The time given by Mr. Aberhart is his conservative estimate.

Fortitude A Vice

Hanover Post—Commenting that "almost every time the prime minister has spoken he has commended us for our fortitude," Miss Agnes Macphail, M.P., said there were times when fortitude was not a virtue but a vice. "To endure a situation that must be endured is a good thing, but to endure a situation that need not be endured is putting up with unnecessary torture," she emphasized. "Canadians need impatience more than anything else. They need to have intelligence to work together. The prime minister's speech indicates that fortitude is about over and impatience is beginning. We are going to ask that things be done."

LIBERAL CHIEF SUPPORTS REFORM

MacKenzie King Asks Speedy Action
On New Government Policies

The Liberal leader, Hon. MacKenzie King, in his opening speech, asked Prime Minister Bennett that minor issues be left till the last of the session and that the major issues of social legislation be carried forward as speedily as possible. He offered qualified support to reform measures of unemployment insurance, old age pensions, new company laws, etc. but reserved the right of himself and his followers to consider these proposals on their merits. Mr. King placed himself on record as favoring amendments to the British North American Act, and the first amendment should enable the Dominion to amend its own constitution.

Prime Minister Bennett reproached the opposition for not carrying out in 1926, '27 and '28 the reforms which he himself proposes to put into effect in 1935.

Mr. King Asserts

Speaking on the new proposals, Mr. King said the immediate need of the country was to provide for the 1,000,000 unemployed—who, for instance, would not benefit from an unemployment insurance scheme. The Liberal leader offered to pledge his party to give its undivided attention to the reform legislation.

Mr. King contended, it was impossible to defend a system of government in which a ministry should be elected on one policy and before resigning take an entirely opposite policy.

"There is a barbed wire entanglement across this country today that will have to be torn aside," Mr. King declared, after listing "tariffs raised beyond all bounds," quotas, embargos and other means by which control of trade had been attempted. He would not say, however, that all tariffs should be removed.

In his opinion the Canadian National Railways was the largest single industry in Canada. It had been the endeavor of the prime minister to put that industry as far as possible beyond state intervention, Mr. King declared.

Quoting again from the prime minister's addresses Mr. King came to that section in which Mr. Bennett stated "The keystone of the capitalist arch is the profit system, and the profit system it still remains." In his

WHEAT FUTURE IS MENACED

Canada is losing her wheat markets. Government price control and gambling in futures are doing the trick.

There seems to be very little public concern and practically no attention by politicians for the fact that Canada is in danger of losing the economic advantage in which it has always had the greatest pride; the position of being the world's greatest exporter of wheat and wheat flour.

Our wheat exports in recent weeks have fallen to alarmingly low levels. British millers have reduced their proportion of Canadian wheat in their "mix" to the lowest in a generation.

A generation is growing up in Britain that will hardly know the taste of bread made from Canadian wheat or wheat flour.

For several years we have adhered to the policy of asking more for our wheat than the world market price. We are still under the illusion that the seller alone fixes the price.

FOR SOCIAL CREDIT

D.O. Wight, Liberal Provincial nominee for the Cardston district, is also editor and publisher of the Cardston News, and has two hard jobs on his hands now, instead of one hard job. His position on Social Credit is given in an editorial: "What is my stand on Social Credit? It is just this—Social Credit offers the most reasonable and sensible solution yet studied by me. I have been a student of social credit for many months. For logic and reasonableness, I defy anyone to refute their fundamental arguments."

opinion, Mr. King said, the keystone of the capitalist system was the control of the nation's credit and currency. He went on then to speak of the new central bank.

"No program of planned economy can succeed that is not based on intelligent public control of currency and credit," declared Mr. King.

Practically all the measures pertaining to the Labor department, said Mr. King, have been enacted under Liberal governments, the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act, the Combines Investigation Act, the Fair Wages and Eight-Hour Day.

"He (the prime minister) has a little from the C.C.F.; he has a great deal from the Liberal party, but he has very little that is new so far as his own party is concerned," stated the Liberal leader in referring to the speech from the throne.

On the railway question the Liberal party was on record for the maintenance and integrity of the Canadian National Railways as a publicly-controlled enterprise.

It stood also for free speech. It stood for repeal of section 98 of the Criminal Code, added Mr. King.

Mr. King referred to the legislation strongly advocated by himself and his party—a representative national commission to co-operate with provinces and municipalities for a national system of unemployed insurance, an effort to end artificial price control, since internal trade is honeycombed with secret agreements; the nationally controlled Central Bank, with control of currency in relation to public need.

Pointing out that certain Bennett reforms cannot be implemented without amendments to the B. N. A. Act. Mr. King urged amendments that would enable nation-wide social legislation to be passed.

J. B. Morley, manager.ALAS MY POOR RESOLUTIONS

How easy to break a New Year's resolution. The Cornwall Standard-Freeholder tells, "We vowed to give up smoking. First thing on the morning of January 1, a friend offered his cigarette case, and, without thinking, we reached for the familiar white tube. Bang went resolution No. 1. Once broken, it was beyond renewal.

We resolved to eliminate the word "splendid" from our vocabulary. That darned adjective has a habit of creeping into almost every story we write, and it must get monotonous to our readers. But a habit of many years' standing cannot be overcome overnight. We checked up and found that we had used the obnoxious word no fewer than 11 times in the issue following January 1, 1935. So resolution No. 2 went by the boards."

STIMULATING OUR RECOVERY

The Lethbridge Herald reprints this suggestion from the Buffalo Courier. It offers ideas for popular song titles to stimulate the pace of recovery.

"What a Relief When We're Off the Relief."
 "Earning a Living for Two."
 "Romantic Road-Building Days."
 "You and I when the Goose Hangs High."
 "You're Devastating in Overalls."
 "Down Where the Norris Dam Is Rising."
 "More Power to Us All."
 "Earning and Yearning for You."
 "Just a Home Loan for Two."
 "Music of Pick and Shovel."
 "Don't Take My Mind Off My Work."
 "You and Me and Recovery."
 "Bring Home the Bacon Again."
 "Tell Me What to Try—I'll Do It."

LAW IN US

Martin Insull is free, because a Cook County Jury says he should be. A federal jury recently drawn from other Cook County residents, rendered the same service to Samuel Insull.

Thus the American public, through a Cook County agency, has put its stamp of approval on the mulcting of themselves, to the tune of billions. Since Leopold and Loeb were given a life sentence, instead of the death penalty, for one of the most revolting and atrocious crimes ever committed it has seemed to be highly possible to induce American Judges, lawyers and juries to "listen to reason" and to "ply ball."

The United States has a greater percentage of arrests for crimes committed than does Canada, but whereas Canada has a record of 85 per cent. of successful prosecutions and convictions, the United States has only about 15 per cent. of convictions.—Fred Cummings, Mozon, Illinois.

Paraphrasing World Events

newspapers contained interviews condemning or commending his proposals. Now there's quick thinking for you.

Police of an Eastern city are stationed at street corners to apprehend pedestrians who cross against the red light. There should be no need for such supervision. Every pedestrian should take the precaution to wait for the green light. Then if he is killed, he has at least the satisfaction that he was not to blame.

Return of the Saar is expected to have a mollifying influence upon Germany. On the other hand, it may only whet the appetite for further returns.

Since when did eminent counsel boast to the press of what they were going to do to adverse witnesses—"We'll give her the works tomorrow," "We've got him where we want him," "We'll tie the old man in a knot," etc. Did Marshall Hall talk that way? Or Edward Carson? Or B. B. Osler? Or Rufus Choate? Defence counsel at Flemington, being unable to secure payment in cash, are taking it out in publicity. There was a time in the United States when that sort of publicity would not get them new clients. We think it won't now, but they think otherwise.

Handwriting experts are generally exact but we recall a trial in which the evidence of one of Canada's greatest experts came to naught. His skill was being tested in cross-examination. Two specimens of penmanship were submitted to him and he declared they were by one hand. They were not. They were written by two different men, but these two men were brothers. Among members of a family there is often a marked similarity of penmanship that would baffle a specialist. We knew a private secretary who could imitate his chief's signature so faithfully that his chief could not detect any difference, and we doubt if an expert could.
